

Talking about the Individual Disabilities Education Act (“IDA”).

Written by Alex

Wednesday, 24 October 2012 00:00 -

---

This entitles eligible children with disabilities to “free and appropriate public education that includes special education related services.” Special education is defined especially designed instructions at no cost to the parent to meet the child(s) disability; and this includes not only instructors conducting the classrooms, in the home, hospitals and institutions and other settings with related services.